

73.220 Depositions -- Administering oath.

The proccessioners may, at the request of any party interested, take depositions as to the proper position of any corner or line, and the depositions shall be returned with the proccessioners' report. The opposite party may, in like manner, take testimony at the same or another time. Any proccessioner or person selected by the parties who has taken a legal oath of qualification may administer an oath to any other proccessioner or person selected who has not taken an oath, or administer an oath touching any matter within the scope of their duties.

Effective: October 1, 1942

History: Recodified 1942 Ky. Acts ch. 208, sec. 1, effective October 1, 1942, from Ky. Stat. sec. 2371.