

502.010 Liability for conduct of innocent or irresponsible person.

- (1) A person is guilty of an offense committed by an innocent or irresponsible person when he:
 - (a) Acts with the culpability that is sufficient for commission of that offense; and
 - (b) Causes that innocent or irresponsible person to engage in conduct constituting the offense.
- (2) As used in this section, an "innocent or irresponsible person" includes anyone who is not guilty of the offense in question, despite his participation, because of:
 - (a) Criminal irresponsibility or other legal incapacity or exemption; or
 - (b) Unawareness of the criminal nature of the conduct in question or the defendant's criminal purpose; or
 - (c) Any other factor precluding the mental state sufficient for the commission of the offense in question.
